

CHAPTER ONE

Beam me up, scotty

In this chapter, Jen Sincero shares the inspiring story of her grandmother, who marveled at the wonders of the modern world and encouraged readers to embrace the possibility of greatness. Sincero emphasizes that nothing is impossible if we believe in ourselves and our dreams. She urges everyone to pursue their passions unabashedly, regardless of societal expectations or self-doubt. By allowing ourselves to shine and pursue what sets our souls ablaze, we not only transform our own lives but also illuminate the world around us. This chapter is a powerful reminder that you are deserving of an extraordinary life.

Embrace the Impossible.

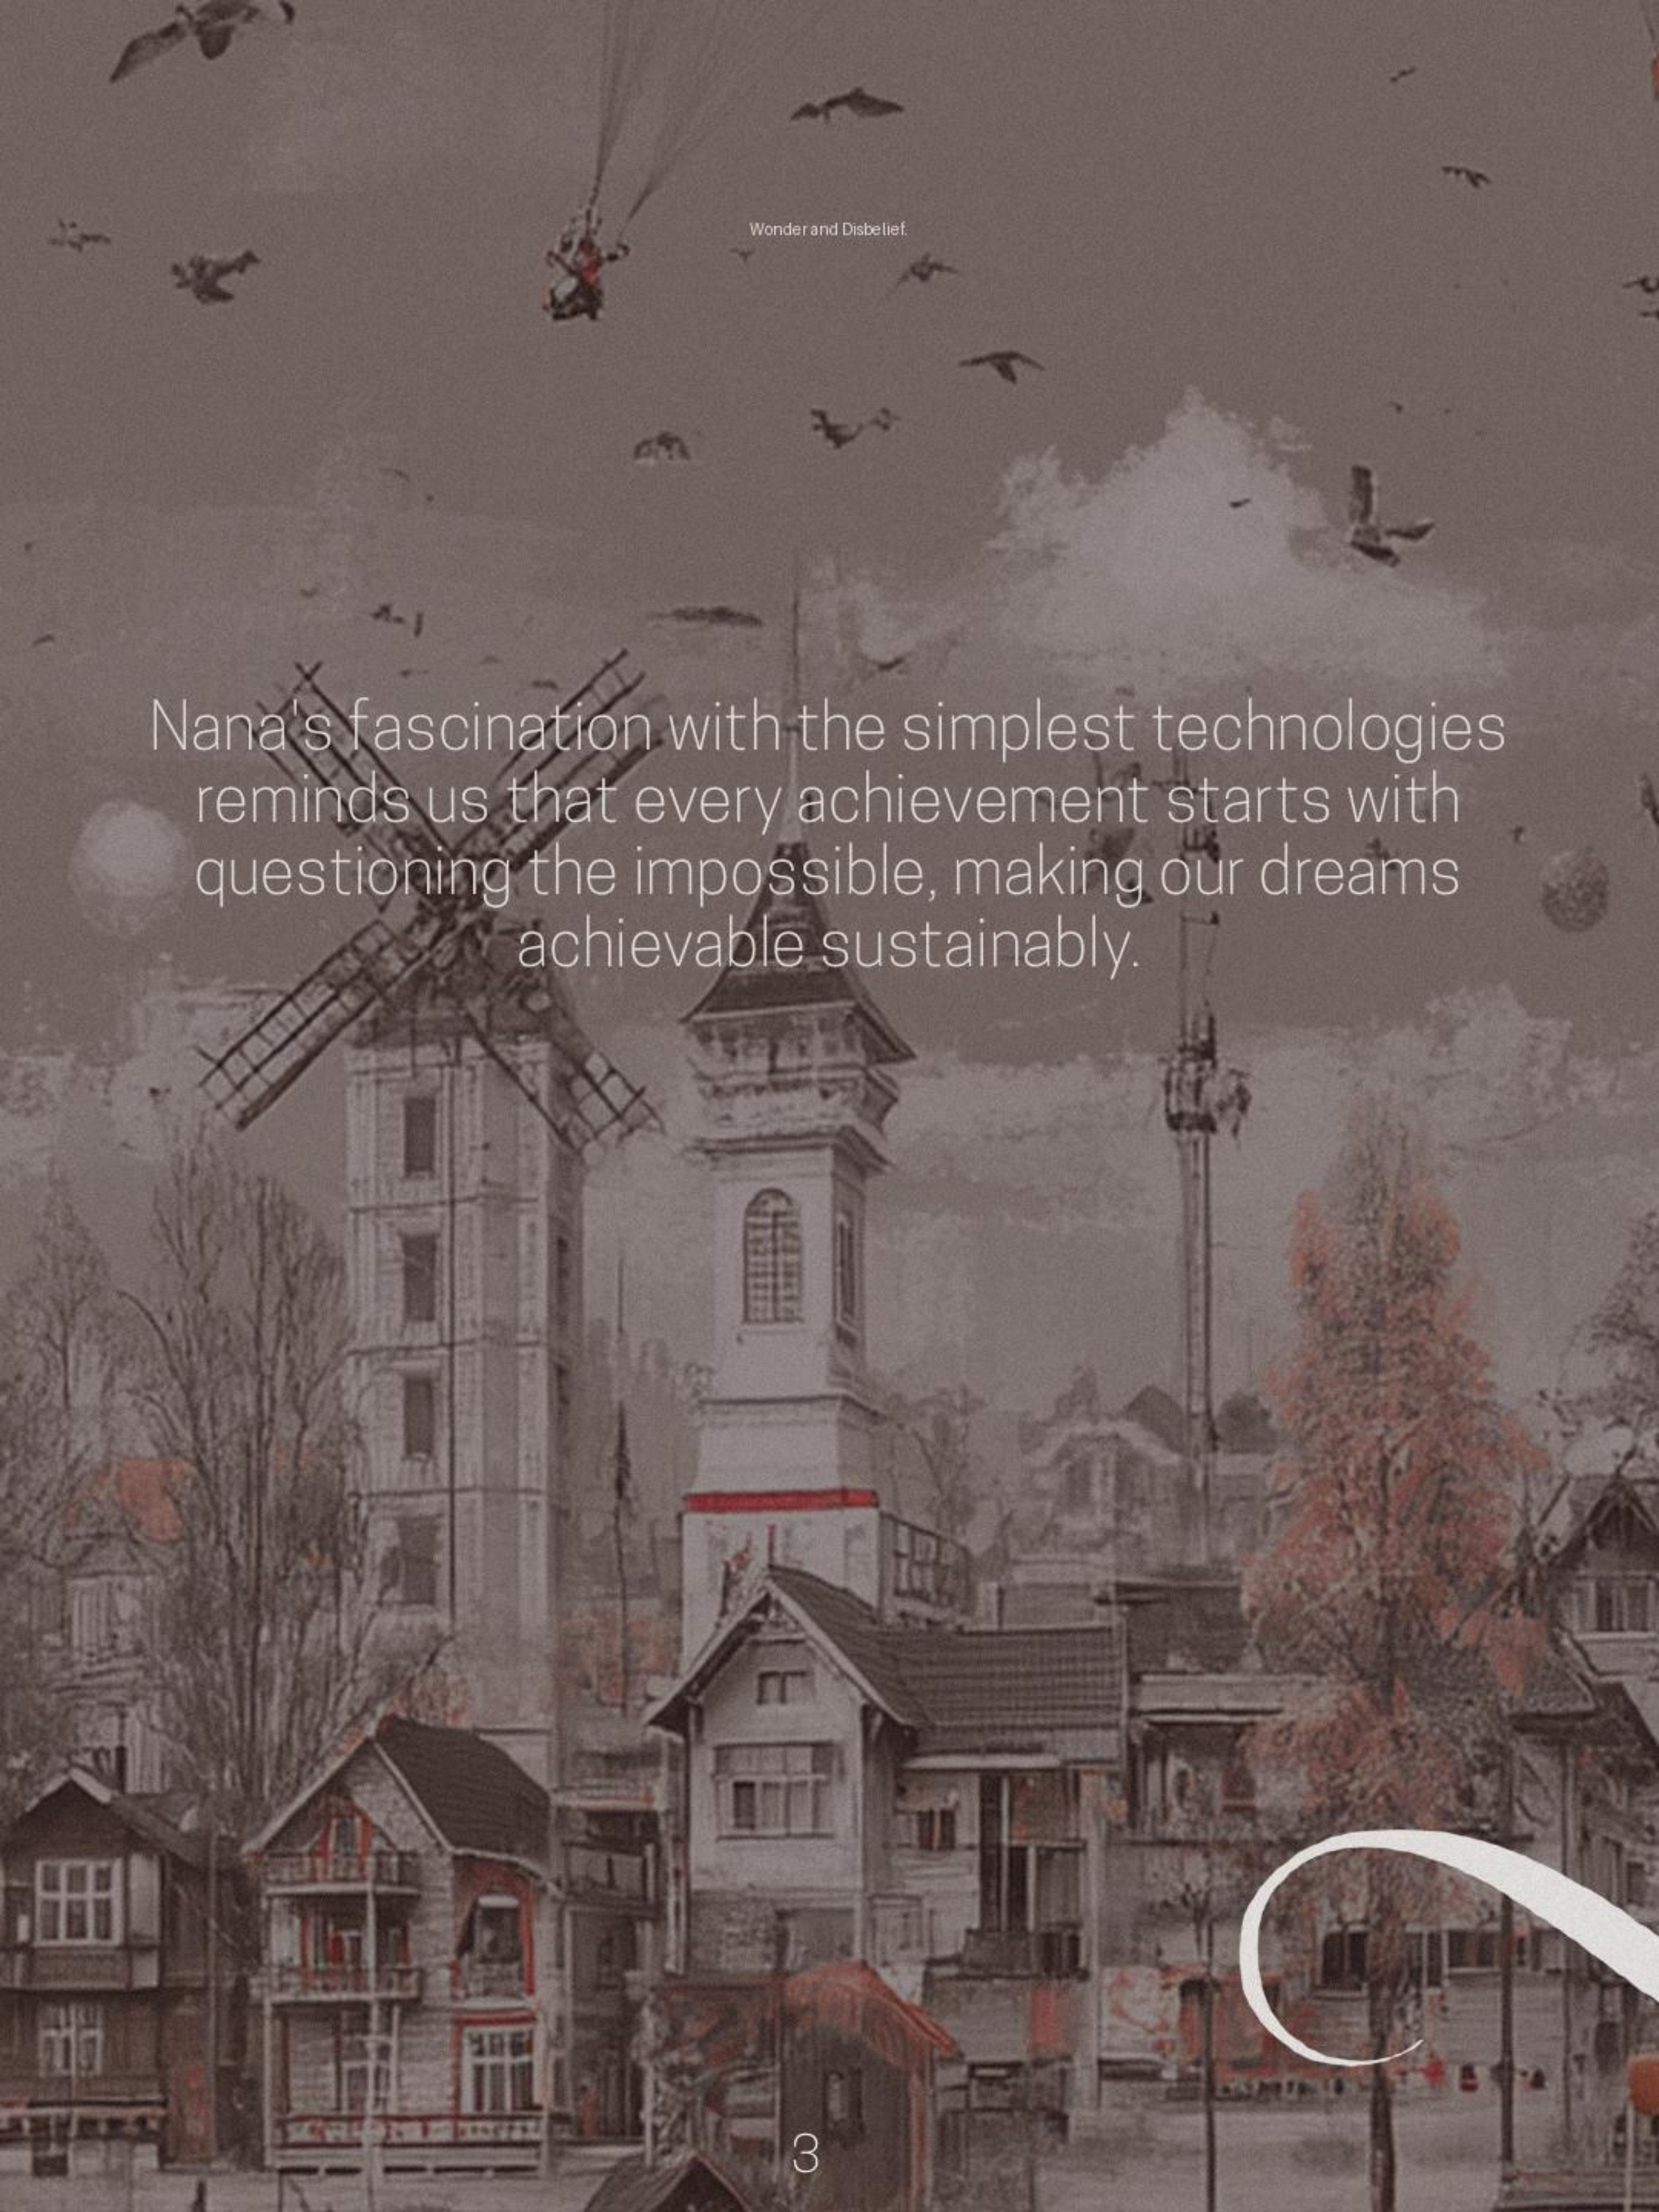

Audrey Hepburn famously said, 'Nothing is impossible, the word itself says I'm possible.' This sentiment is at the heart of this chapter, pushing us to redefine our perceptions of what can be achieved.

"Believe that anything is possible."

Jen reflects on her grandmother's life, a woman who witnessed incredible advancements. Her childlike wonder at these marvels encourages us to approach our dreams with the same innocence and awe.

"What blew her mind the most? Everyday wonders."

Wonder and Disbelief.

Nana's fascination with the simplest technologies reminds us that every achievement starts with questioning the impossible, making our dreams achievable sustainably.

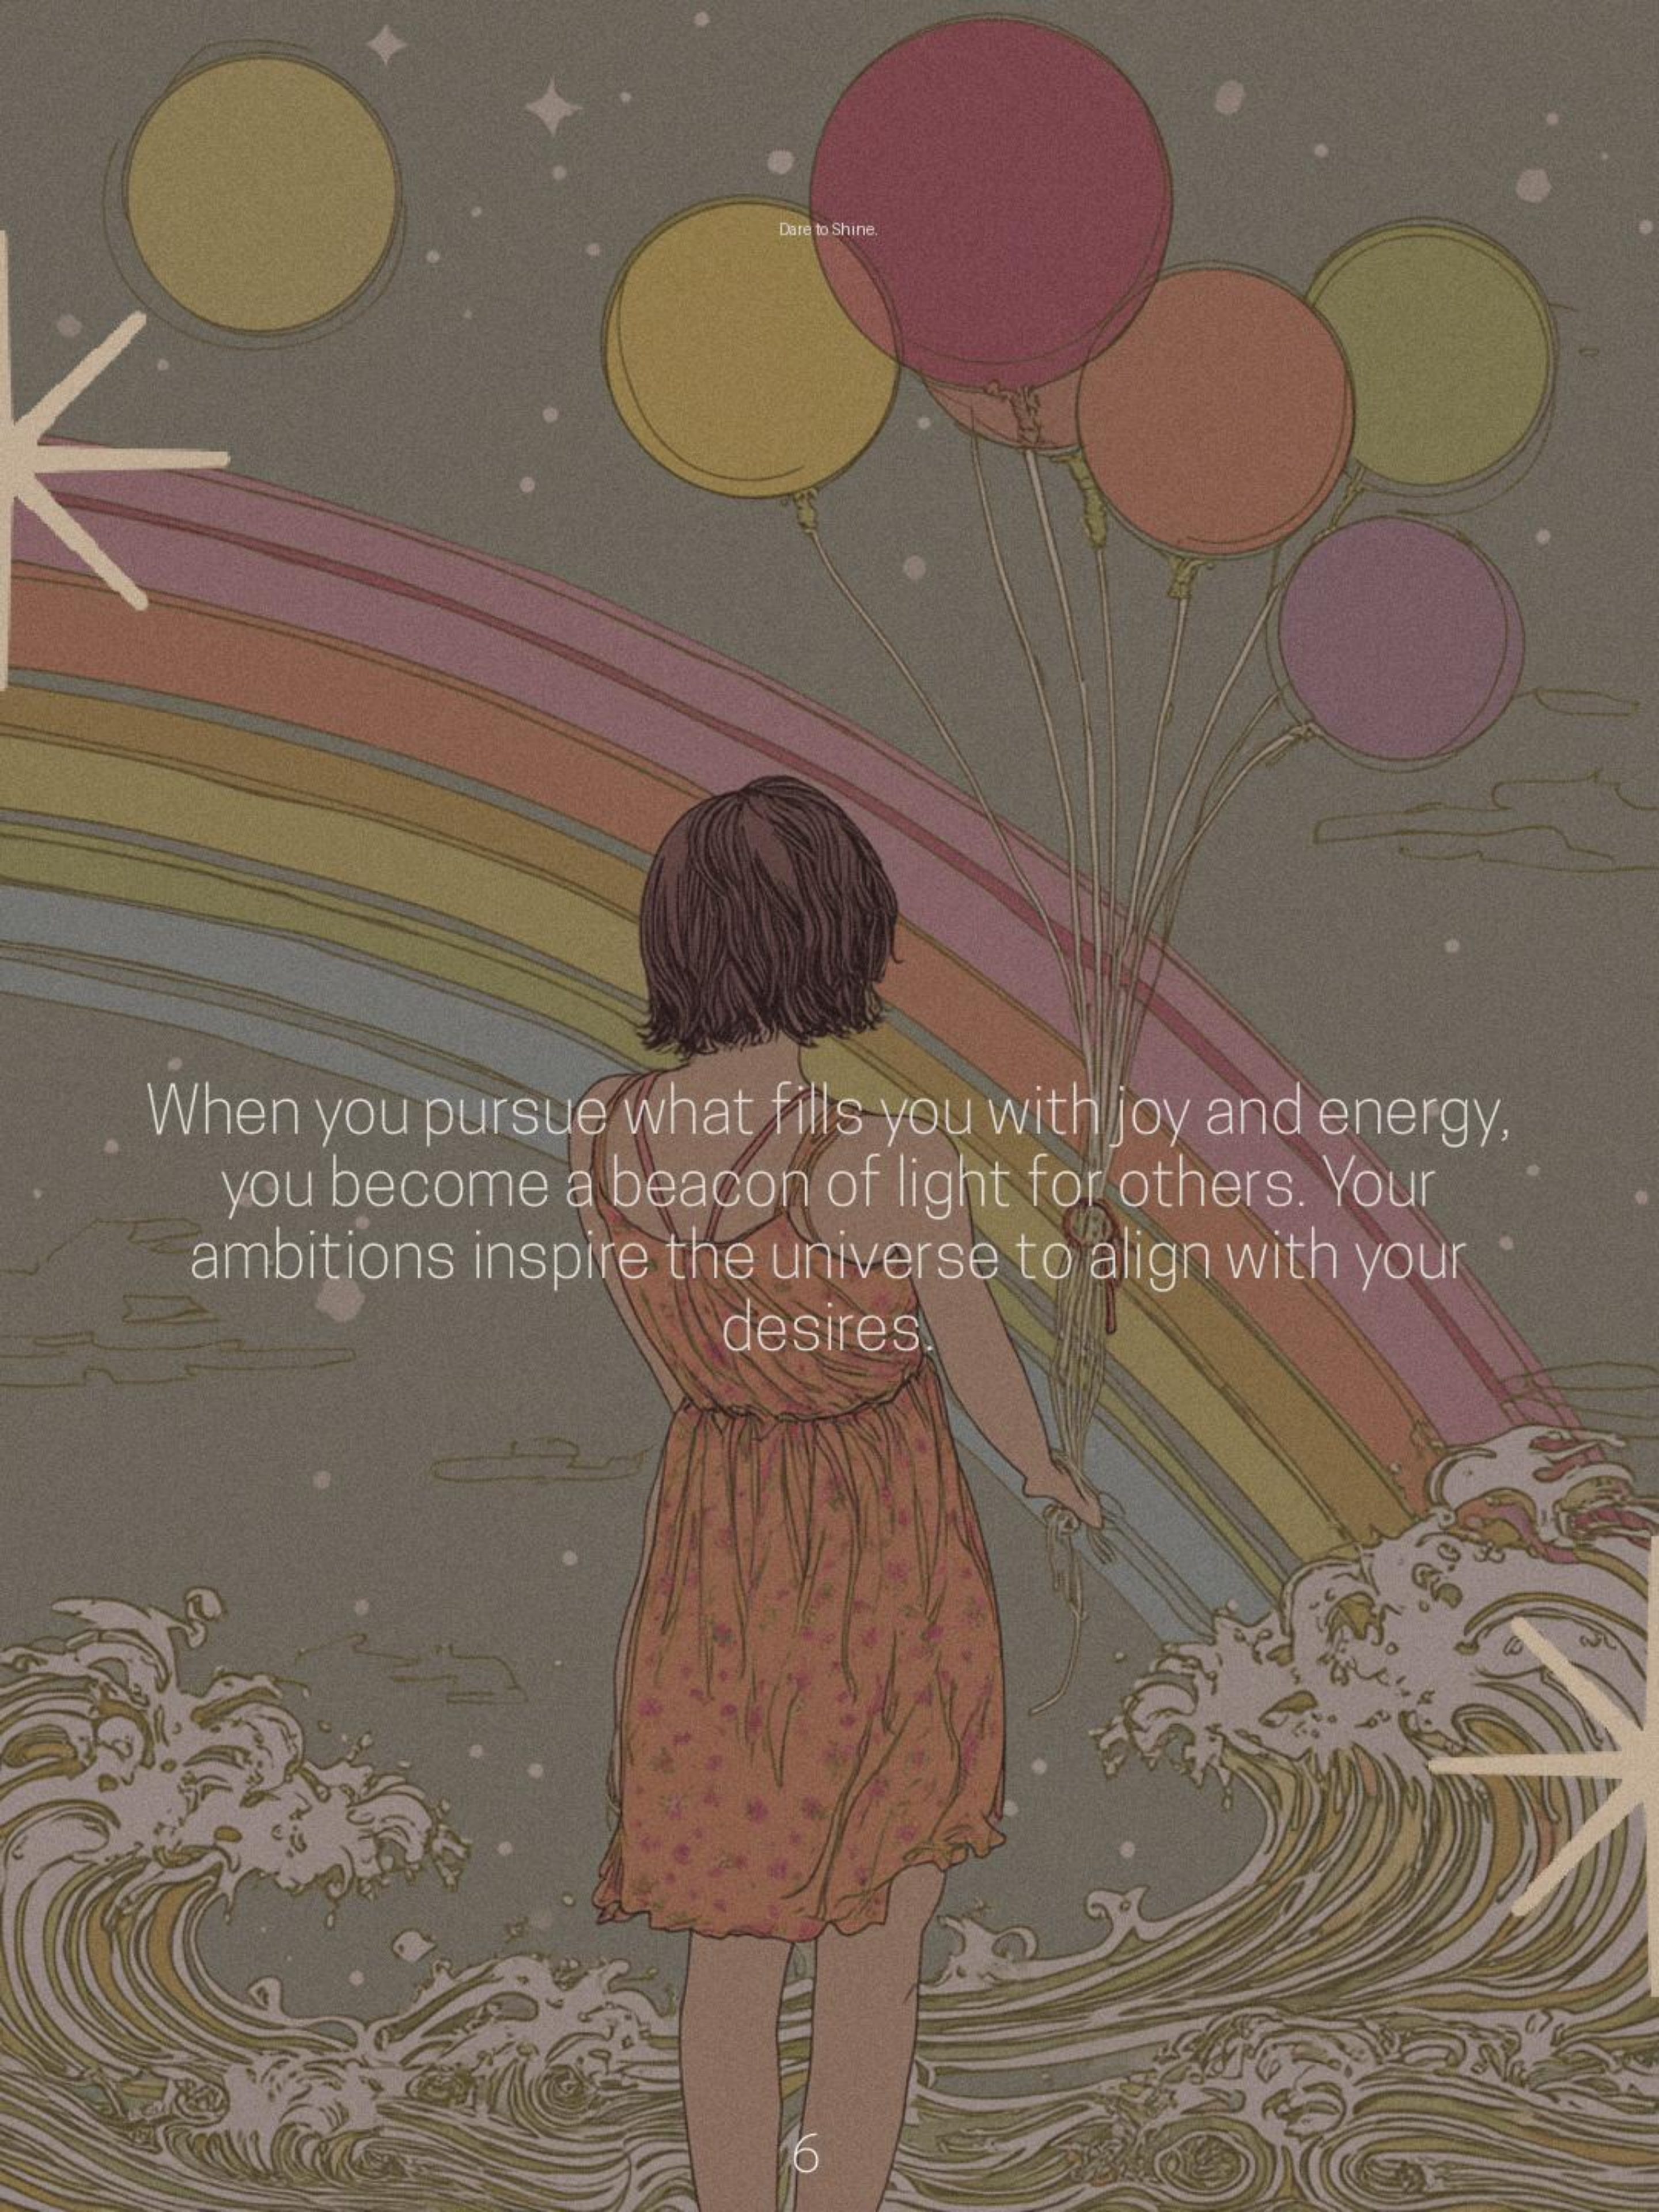

The Power of Belief.

Sincero challenges us to give ourselves permission to chase our dreams without fear or guilt. It's essential to believe we are deserving of our desires.

Live Unapologetically.

Don't hold back! Whether it's starting a business, pursuing a passion, or simply being authentic, step into your power and embrace the journey.

She is holding a bunch of colorful balloons (yellow, red, orange, green, purple) that float upwards. A vibrant rainbow arches across the sky behind her. The sky is dark grey with white stars and a large yellow sun or moon in the top left. The bottom of the image shows stylized, swirling waves in shades of green and white. The overall style is whimsical and dreamlike.

Dare to Shine.

When you pursue what fills you with joy and energy, you become a beacon of light for others. Your ambitions inspire the universe to align with your desires.

Recognize your power and the miracles surrounding you. Realize that you hold the keys to your dreams and can manifest them into reality.

You Are Powerful.
